DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's amendment and response filed on August 30, 2010 and the IDS filed on November 11, 2010 have been received and entered into the case. Claims 1 – 15 and 17 are canceled; claims 21 – 38 are added; claims 16 and 18 – 38 are pending and have been considered on the merits. All arguments have been fully considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bisgaier et al. (US 2004/0038891).

Bisgaier teaches a method for treating and preventing ischemic reperfusion injury comprising administering effective amounts of PON (abstract, claims, p.3), wherein the method is useful for any ischemic reperfusion injury such as the brain (0016), or is cerebral.

The reference anticipates the claimed subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 16 and 18 – 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bisgaier et al. (US 2004/0038891) as evidenced by Welch et al. (US 2006/0257866).

Bisgaier teaches a method for treating and preventing ischemic reperfusion injury comprising administering effective amounts of PON (abstract, claims, p.3) in combination with glycerols (p.5) and other pharmaceutically acceptable additives (p.5-6), wherein the injury is to the brain, or is cerebral (0016).

Bisgaier does not teach wherein the additive is CHAPS. However, at the time of the claimed invention, CHAPS was a well known and used additive in the art. In support, Welch teaches common pharmaceutical surfactants and detergents include CHAP (138, 193). Thus, at the time of the claimed invention, one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated by Bisgaier and common practices as evidenced by Welch, to include CHAPS in the composition of Bisgaier with a reasonable expectation for successfully obtaining an effective PON composition for improving ischemia reperfusion.

Response to Arguments

Applicant argues that the reference does not teach cerebral ischemia reperfusion, but cardiac.

However, this argument fails to persuade because Bisgaier teaches that the method is useful in any context where treatment from ischemic reperfusion is useful to include the brain, or is cerebral in nature (0016). Thus, in following the teachings of Bisgaier, one of ordinary skill in the art would have understood the method to include cerebral ischemia reperfusion. For these reasons and those stated in the rejection above, the claims stand rejected.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
